

Giveaway: $100 Credit at Art.com!

Filed under Uncategorized

It's happened. I am snowed in AGAIN, searching everywhere for a way to amuse myself.

Thank god, my "good" side is winning out tonight, and I'm spending the time reorganizing and planning my great decor decisions — should I get a pink fainting couch????) - and not turning to wine and cookies like at Christmas.

As a renter, I'm not allowed to paint my apartment — however, I can DECORATE the walls, and that's where the idea of Art.com hit me.

It's amazing — you can buy prints and original artwork at all spectrums, but they also have a really cool option called "Photos to Art," which allows you to turn one of your prized photos into something you can hang the wall. You can choose from a museum quality frame, canvas, acrylic or even have your photo mounted on wood. Imagine if I can go all Audrey and have a picture of MYSELF? I obviously wouldn't do that. But how fun would it be?

See for yourself!!! One reader will win $100 to use at Art.com - to have your chance to win, check out the site and tell me, if you won, what you would use your credit for. Deadline to enter is January 25. You can also enter via tweet at @alywalansky. For alternative means of entry, visit here.

1/11/11

<http://sheknows.com/blogs/alytude/?p=4257>